

WOMEN ACTIVE IN POLITICAL RING IN TEXAS

CONFUSION ATTENDING SELECTION OF DELEGATES WAS LIKE MEN MAKE.

Parliamentary Procedure of Little Consequence When Several Hundred All Wanted to Speak.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Dallas, June 2.—One of the most interesting features of the 1920 Democratic State Convention here was the caucus of the 250 women delegates. It was the first big political meeting for women only in Texas, and was called to name four women delegates at large to the national democratic convention. Harmony was the announced watchword of the caucus, but the hot sun and heat of politics brought the meeting to the boiling point.

In the end the four women were named and with twelve men were elected by the state convention, with one-fourth vote each, to cast the Texas four delegate-at-large votes as a unit at San Francisco. Thirty-six delegates, with one vote each, also were elected, making the state's forty convention ballots.

The caucus was exciting from the very start. "Madam, chairman," exclaimed a delegate after the meeting began to get warm. "There are four motions before the house now and I desire to make another."

"Women, we are making fools of ourselves," said the chairman, pounding her umbrella on the floor. "The men will be completely disgusted with us." Finally the chair was able to read the pre-arranged slate.

All Talk at Once. Immediately three women were on their feet vying for the choice for delegate-at-large. Then several addresses were delivered simultaneously in favor of one candidate. This was followed by a confusing debate over one of the candidates.

"Madam chairman," shouted a woman from Beaumont, "if we cannot agree on all four candidates, let's agree on the first three names, and attend to the other later."

"We will vote on her (the Beaumont lady's) question," the chairman said, "but first let me add the name of another candidate and we will vote on all of them."

Scores of voices cried "question, question," and a vote was taken on the "previous question." The "ayes" won and then it apparently dawned upon the delegates that no one knew what the "previous question" was.

Would Look Them Over. A delegate demanded that all the candidates come forward and line-up to the caucus "will know how to vote for them." The candidates lined up, but six women began to speak at the same time and the "exhibition" was not taken seriously. Then came cries of "we want six delegates; what right have the men to limit our number?"

A small, motherly-looking woman waved her umbrella over the attention of the chair was attracted. Above the hum of voices she declared the "women ought to be satisfied with what the men gave them. Only five per cent of the women have paid their poll tax and we don't deserve more than four delegates."

Out of the confusion another voice said: "The men put the selection of the women on us because they knew what a big job it was."

The seats were no longer in use and the house was filled with "walking delegates," each of whom had seemingly discovered suddenly that she had a political opinion of her own. A tall, gray-haired woman, with a heavy umbrella, towered above the crowd and declared the meeting "a disgrace."

"This unseemly action will cause the men to have a contempt for everything connected with woman suffrage," she shouted. She demanded that a chairman "familiar with parliamentary law" be elected "so the meeting can be controlled." The chairman appeared relieved rather than offended at her threatened overthrow. A vote was taken and she was rejected.

Urged Better Behavior. At this point a delegate got the floor and, tears in her eyes, urged the women to be more "reasonable and Christianlike."

"We are making history in the first convention of Texas women and our actions at this caucus may give a black eye to suffrage in this state," she said. This cooled the meeting temporarily, but the temperature soon rose again.

A close vote was taken on the candidates and the chair called for a division of the house. But the house refused to divide. It seemed that nearly two hundred delegates were engaged in conversation and unable to find a place to leave off.

Suddenly a delegate noticed several newspaper men standing in a doorway. "For heaven's sake, hush! Look at those men laughing themselves to death," she shouted.

"Please don't let the public know how this meeting has behaved," scores of voices shouted. The confusion, they declared, was caused by the "radical minority."

After the four women delegates-at-large had been chosen, a Dallas woman walked out of the hall shaking her head. "I believe after all, that our Mothers' Council, is a quiet and orderly organization," she declared.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF STRIKES FAVORED BY PEOPLE GENERALLY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: New York, June 2.—Strikes may legitimately be forbidden in government service says a report issued tonight by the Committee of Industrial Relations of the advisory committee on policies and platform of the republican national committee. This situation, however, is declared to be contingent upon a provision that impartial tribunals be established to protect the rights of the employees in arbitration of their disputes with the government.

After canvassing the country generally in questionnaires, the subcommittee reported its findings which included:

"Insofar as public utilities are concerned, there appears to be division of opinion as to whether strikes should be made illegal, and the decisions of commissions or tribunals should be made legally binding, or whether provision should be made for thorough inquiry by boards or commissions and the force of public opinion be relied on to enforce their decisions, strikes being forbidden until after the decisions have been rendered.

"Insofar as private employments are concerned, while many hold that there is no need for government action, the majority favor the creation of some form of tribunal or commission composed of representatives of employers, employees and the public, to whom disputes may be voluntarily referred, whose decisions, unless unanimous, would not be binding or carry weight, save insofar as they enlisted the form of public opinion."

VERMONT DEMOCRATS GO UNINSTRUMENTED BUT FAVOR THE BREWERIES

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Rutland, Vt., June 2.—An uninstructed delegation will represent Vermont at the democratic national convention in San Francisco. The delegates were selected without contest at the state convention.

The convention went on record in favor of woman suffrage and universal military training. The platform declared the Volstead prohibition act "unfair and un-American" and favored the manufacturers of wine and light beer.

WANT DEATH PENALTY FOR HEEDLESS MOTORISTS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Dallas, Texas, June 2.—Recommendations for a law carrying the death penalty for automobile drivers who ran down pedestrians and then sped away without stopping to render aid to their victim will be made by members of the public safety committee recently organized in Dallas, according to a statement by one of the members.

Would Look Them Over. A delegate demanded that all the candidates come forward and line-up to the caucus "will know how to vote for them." THE PLATFORM OUTLINED AND ON TO CHICAGO

REPUBLICAN APPEAL TO THE VOTERS PREPARED BY PARTY LEADERS

Makes No Mention of Prohibition But Declares For Woman Suffrage And Mex. Intervention

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Washington, June 2.—The tentative draft of the republican national platform was given its finishing touches at conferences here today and Senator Watson, Indiana, in charge of the task, will leave for Chicago tomorrow to confer with prospective members of the convention's resolutions committee.

The plank on Mexico was added to the draft today. It was written by Senator Fall, New Mexico, head of the subcommittee on Mexican affairs and later was revised in minor respects at a conference attended by Senator Watson, Senator Lodge, Mass., republican leader of the senate, and a number of other prominent republicans. It is understood to follow in general the recommendations made by Senator Fall in his report to the senate, declaring that unless conditions in Mexico are improved the United States should intervene.

Side-Stepped Prohibition. All mention of prohibition is omitted from the tentative draft and it was understood that those who conferred here would recommend against any declaration on the subject. That issue, it was suggested, should be regarded as settled. The tentative draft contains a declaration, however, urging prompt ratification of the woman suffrage amendment.

Another declaration missing from the platform is that relating to the soldier bonus. Leaders here said they were unprepared to make any recommendation on the subject under present conditions and that a plank on the subject would be worked out at Chicago.

No attempt was made to reach a final decision on a plank relating to the league of nations. Several tentative declarations have been drafted, however, and will be laid before the party chiefs at Chicago.

In its work the conference had before it the platform adopted by the Virginia democrats and recently given the approval of President Wilson. It was said that every effort was made so to phrase the republican draft that it would make the issues as clear and direct as possible.

DELAWARE DISREGARDS PRESIDENT'S REQUEST TO VOTE FOR SUFFRAGE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Dover, Del., June 2.—Despite the appeal of President Wilson and other national democratic and republican leaders for ratification of the woman suffrage federal amendment, the Delaware legislature adjourned sine die today with the ratification resolution still in the house committee of the whole.

Uncertain in Louisiana. Baton Rouge, La., The senate and house joint committees on federal relations, at the close of a public hearing on the federal suffrage amendment, decided tonight to make a favorable report in both houses of the general assembly tomorrow.

Passage by the house today of a bill to amend the state constitution to give women the right to vote was hailed by anti-suffragists tonight as indicating the defeat of the federal ratification resolution. Supporters of the federal ratification, however, refused to concede defeat.

SENATOR EDGE STATES HE HAS HEARD ENOUGH

OF NOMINATION EXPENDITURES AND FURTHER INQUIRY WOULD DO NO GOOD.

Palmer and Bonniwell of Pennsylvania Have Verbal Clash Much to Edification of Crowd.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Washington, June 2.—A fiery cross-battle verbal battle between Attorney General Palmer and Eugene C. Bonniwell, Philadelphia, bristling with direct charges of misuse of federal powers to let down the liquor bars in the Pennsylvania presidential primaries on the one hand, and of attempted "character assassination" in the other, marked the senate investigation today of pre-convention campaign expenditures.

The attorney general appeared unexpectedly in the committee room after Mr. Bonniwell had launched a sweeping assertion that the whole Palmer campaign in Pennsylvania had been a "ghastly and debasing degradation of law." Mr. Palmer, the first candidate for a presidential nomination to appear in the inquiry, took a seat across the table from the witness who, it was brought out, was a political enemy of long standing.

Palmer Replies. News of the impending verbal clash spread rapidly and the hearing room soon was crowded. When Mr. Bonniwell concluded, Mr. Palmer replied opening his statement by charging that Mr. Bonniwell had employed "character assassination" methods against him in Pennsylvania for years, and concluding that in Pennsylvania "Judge Bonniwell's word is not evidence of fact."

Echoes of the combat had hardly died away before a new element was injected into the deliberations with the flat refusal of Senator Edge (rep.) of New Jersey, to attend further sessions. In announcing that he had notified the chairman of the full committee and the subcommittee of his decision, the senator said he believed approximate figures on all pre-convention expenditures had been obtained and that further inquiry would result only in airing of "charges, counter-charges, intimations and insinuations." He added that no federal law had been broken as there was no federal presidential primary law to break.

Still Hunting McAdoo Boon. Before Mr. Palmer appeared the committee had inquired into the activities of the Plumb Plan League, made further efforts to run down a presidential campaign for W. G. McAdoo and had heard two officials of oil companies, mentioned in previous testimony as possible large contributors to political campaigns.

Edward Keating, manager of the Plumb Plan League, declared the league had taken no part in any presidential political activity and had not contributed any money and did not plan to participate in the convention struggles. He added that he did seek to defeat members of congress who voted for the transportation act.

Mrs. Antoinette Funk, Illinois, active in Liberty loan drives and later for the democratic national committee declared positively that no campaign for obtaining the democratic presidential nomination for McAdoo direct or indirect, existed, "much to her regret."

H. F. Sinclair, New York, of the oil company bearing his name, declared he had made no campaign contributions or been otherwise actively engaged politically, and Norman Bridges, connected with the Doheny Oil interests, testified that he had contributed $1,000 to General Wood's candidacy, but otherwise knew nothing of any campaign.

Bonniwell For McAdoo. After the oil company officials had been excused, the committee came to Mr. Bonniwell. The Pennsylvania man, candidate for democratic national committee from that state at the recent primary and who opposed the Palmer movement with a "sticker" campaign for McAdoo delegates, was called in connection with his McAdoo activity.

He testified that he had conducted that campaign "over the direct and personal refusal of Mr. McAdoo to have his name used, which prevented its appearance on the ballots and necessitated stickers."

The witness touched on his charges about the Palmer Pennsylvania campaign and thereafter they fell thick and fast. He asserted that that state at the Palmer movement was threatened the bars had been let down suddenly, that liquor warehouse doors were thrown "wide open" under the eyes of the department of justice and prohibition enforcement officers of the federal government, particularly in "the coal counties" and that the whole Palmer campaign was not only a "ghastly and debasing degradation of law" but "an invitation to law violations."

Some direct references by Mr. Bonniwell to Mr. Palmer were stricken out by the committee as personalities and Mr. Bonniwell was still in the midst of his accusations when a recess was taken at noon.

Mr. Bonniwell resumed after lunch Senator McCrene (den.), of Ohio, began cross-examination of Mr. Bonniwell after Mr. Palmer, when offered a chance to "question the witness" said he had come merely to make a statement to the committee. The senator repeatedly demanded if Bonniwell had personal knowledge that federal officers in Pennsylvania "were conniving" at violation of prohibition laws. A statement that the witness was "satisfied" that such was the case was put aside and Senator McCrene insistently repeated his question until the witness answered:

"No, sir." He added that if given two weeks he would furnish legal evidence.

ONE MILLION DOLLAR OIL STATION FIRE IN KANSAS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Chicago, June 2.—Pre-convention atmosphere got its first real stir today from developments in the republican national committee and movements among forces gathering for the contest next week.

Testimony before the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures that sums of money had been paid two delegates in Missouri, counted as supporters of Governor Lowden, held the center of attention for a while and then talk of a Knox-Johnson candidacy became the topic of the day. Some of the gossip connected John T. King, national committeeman, Connecticut, and formerly General Wood's manager, with the Knox-Johnson movement, but Mr. King declined to say anything for publication. Johnson headquarters merely pointed out the proceedings. He was photographed on record as refusing a second place on any ticket.

The republican national committee's open hearings of contests was enlivened by some hotly debated cases and also by a visit from Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the democratic national committee. Mr. Cummings visited the hearing room where he became the center of a good-natured reception which almost drowned out the proceedings. He was photographed with republican Chairman Hays and looked over the coliseum for ideas to take to San Francisco.

Are Feeling Encouraged. R. C. Newton, president of a bank at Idabel, Ok., who was a business visitor to Paris yesterday, said that there had been a wonderful improvement in crop conditions in his country the past ten days, and that they were all feeling pretty good over it. The farmers, he said, had decided that it was about time to get busy, and they were getting right down to work.

ONE MILLION DOLLAR OIL STATION FIRE IN KANSAS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Washington, June 2.—With the exception of certain areas in the more eastern districts and the extreme northwestern portion of the belt, weather conditions during the week ending June 1 were more favorable for cotton and the crop made fairly satisfactory progress, according to the weekly weather and crop bulletin of the department of agriculture.

Cotton made only poor growth in Oklahoma on account of deficient sunshine and wet soil, but growth was fairly good in Texas where the condition continues only poor to fair. Much complaint of grassy fields was received from some of the eastern Gulf states, and weevil are becoming numerous in southern Alabama and

THE WATER PROBLEM.

There is rather a disposition upon the part of some of the citizens of Paris to postpone discussion of the water problem, to give alibi and to make promises.

They don't like to talk of it and prefer to discuss the things which impart a rosy hue to the situation.

They seem to look upon the men who insist that the water problem is a current topic of profound interest as being rather in the class of "knockers" of the community and its interest notwithstanding that they are men who have their whole interest in Paris and who work unceasingly for its advancement.

That is a wrong viewpoint. In truth, the water problem is the most important thing there is. The water now being furnished is not fit to drink, and the visitors to the city say so without a moment's hesitation. The biggest drawback this community has right now is the lack of a bountiful supply of good water.

We shall make no further progress until we secure it. We shall, in fact, if we are to continue along present lines, make for our city a reputation which it will take many years to overcome.

True, the administration has an engineer—and a very careful and competent man he is—figuring on building an additional reservoir. But is that the correct solution? Is it the most speedy solution? Is it the solution which will insure us a supply of water for a town of 10,000? Will it give us ample water for new industries, for the foundation of a tin bucket brigade (though in these more modern days the tin bucket has disappeared and the hot and cold bottle lunch kit is the prevailing mode)?

There is said to be eight miles from Paris a source for a supply of water at Round Prairie, which should be carefully considered.

The Morning News is informed that this source of supply has been discussed in the past but that on recent investigation has ever been made. It would require comparatively small expenditure to make a survey that will determine the fact within a very short time.

THAT VISIT TO CHICOTA.

The business men of Paris who joined in the visit to Chicota should be greatly pleased with the results.

In the first place, they found that the folks who live in that community are most likable; that they are appreciative of the spirit which actuated the Paris men in coming to see them and that they have some troubles which the Paris Chamber of Commerce can assist them in adjusting to the natural benefit of all parties.

In the second place, they made some new acquaintances both in Chicota and en route, and the folks were glad to see their friends from town.

True, most of the farmers were in their fields and hard at work; but that, in itself, was a hopeful sign. The fields are clean and the crops look good. That is, everywhere except in the bottoms where they have been washed out; and there the plows and the planters are going and there is evidence that the farmers are hopeful of a crop even on replanting at so late a date.

If the Paris business men needed any proof that the proper manner for handling the road proposition is to do permanent work in the bottoms they had it on this trip. Save on the bad stretches where the lowlands were encountered, the roads were in fair shape and were passable.

With the permanent bridges and culverts in and the roads made passable through these bottom lands, the whole of the roads will become of use and there will be benefit while awaiting better conditions for building the whole of the road.

Altogether the advertising department of the Chamber of Commerce has made a success of the initial visit, and it is well that every community in Lamar county should be visited at intervals and the folks be made acquainted with the viewpoint of the Paris business men and their willingness to give assistance to their friends and neighbors who are building up Lamar county and Northeast Texas.

SENATE HEARS MORE ABOUT BOODLE SPENT FOR THE NOMINATION

Washington, June 3.—Checks aggregating $14,000 sent into Missouri by the managers of Governor Lowden's campaign, were presented today to the senate committee investigating the pre-convention expenditures of Presidential candidates. The checks were laid before the committee by Arthur Davis of Harrisburg, Ill., by direction of L. L. Emerson, national manager of Governor Lowden's campaign.

While most of today was devoted to questioning witnesses as to expenditures of sums covered by the checks, primary contests in other states were touched upon. The committee sought further information on the campaign of Major General Leonard Wood in Michigan and Indiana and the contest between General Wood and Senator Harding in Ohio.

In its inquiry into the Lowden campaign in Missouri, the committee questioned Nat Goldstein, clerk of the Eighth judicial district of St. Louis and his deputy, Robert E. Moore, delegate to the republican national convention from Missouri, who testified that they each had received a check for $2500 from the Lowden campaign fund. Both said the money was held to their account in banks and would be returned, unless Governor Lowden were nominated, in which event it would be used in the campaign.

J. B. Babler, national committeeman from Missouri, whom Goldstein and Moore designated as the one who transmitted the checks to them from Mr. Emerson, also was questioned by the committee. E. L. Morse, head of the Lowden organization outside of St. Louis, another Missourian examined by the committee, testified he had received checks from Mr. Emerson aggregating $32,000 and expended it in "getting out the workers."

Babler got $17,000 of these funds, he said, to reimburse him for similar expenditures. Both Morse and Goldstein testified to having received the checks from Babler in the latter's office with no specific instructions as to how the money should be used.

Morse said Babler had told him "Aw, go ahead and take it," when he had hesitated about accepting a check from Emerson.

Babler was pressed on this point by Chairman Kenyon, who said: "You

ed later. "Was it a pretty hard job to get Morse and Goldstein to take this money?" the senator asked.

"Well I was very anxious about the St. Louis situation," Babler replied. "I wanted to be there in every way necessary to get their active support."

Morse and Babler gave lists of state "workers" to whom they had distributed the money received from Emerson. The amounts ranged as a rule from $100 to $300, but in some instances went over $1,000. Babler, explaining larger items, said they went to men who had "hard fights" ahead of them in their districts. No account of expenditures was asked by either Morse or Babler, they testified.

"Boiling all this down," Senator Reed (dem.), Missouri, said to Babler, "doesn't it come to this: That the methods of campaign you adopted was to get in touch with active workers for some money and tell them to get busy?"

Babler agreed. The witness was asked if others receiving money were delegates. "Morse said three men on list were, including William E. Cole, who is a delegate at large. The witness said:

"Kenyon asked him: 'What was the purpose of the money?'

"Kenyon asked him: 'What was the purpose of the money?'

"There is a delegate at large, with $1,250 (hard money and $500 Lowden money," said Senator Kenyon. "Is that third choice?"

"The committee ordered Cole subpoenaed. Additional information as to the Wood campaign in Michigan was given by Fred M. Alger of Detroit, who said he had personally contributed $5,000 of the $54,000 Wood fund and expended in the state. He had expended personally, he added, $22,000 or $23,000 for Wood's state primary election. Of his total expenditures of more than $70,000, he said:

"I was proud to do it. I would do it again."

Alger said he had first intended to seek subscriptions, but when the first unjust talk of a supposititious financial ring behind Wood's candidacy came up, had decided to put the money up himself. He said he expected no returns from his expenditures which were "for publicity."

Frederick A. Joas, of Indianapolis, said he had been "personally" asked by General Wood to handle the Wood campaign in Indiana. He told of the way in which approximately $38,000 had been spent, 50 per cent for advertising in that state in Wood's interest, his figures checking with those already before the committee.

Robert F. Wolfe, a Columbus, Ohio, publisher, told of his fight against "certain elements" in the republican political ranks of the state which had led him to oppose the Harding candidacy.

He estimated that the Wood campaign had cost each expended $100,000 in the state.

Chairman Kenyon put in the record a letter from Daniel C. Roper, former commissioner of internal revenue, deeming that he had opened a campaign headquarters for W. G. McAdoo in the Pennsylvania hotel, New York City.

Mr. Wisler Cured of Indigestion.

"Some time in 1909 when I had an attack of indigestion and everything looked gloomy to me, I received a free sample of Chamberlain's Tablets by mail. I gave them a trial and they were such a help to me that I bought a package, and I can truthfully say that I have not had a similar attack since," writes Wm. B. Wisler, Douglassville, Pa.

Shadow The Weasel Gets Lost.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

All the green meadows had heard how Peter Rabbit had frightened Reddy Fox with an old straw hat, and everywhere that Reddy went some one was sure to shout after him: "Reddy Fox is fine to see; He's as brave as brave can be. Till he meets an old straw hat. Then he don't know where he's at!"

The Reddy would lose his temper and chase his tormentors. Most of all, he wanted to catch Peter Rabbit. He lay in wait for Peter in fence corners and behind bushes and trees, but somehow Peter seemed always to know that Reddy was there.

In the Old Briar Patch Peter was safe. Reddy had tried to follow him there, but he had found that it was of no use at all. Peter's paths were so narrow and the brambles tore Reddy's clothes and scratched him so that he had to give it up. Reddy was thinking of this one day as he sat on his doorstep scowling over at the Old Briar Patch, and then all of a sudden he thought of Shadow the Weasel. Shadow is so slim that he can go almost anywhere that any one else can, and he is so fierce that nearly all of the little meadow people are terribly afraid of him. Reddy smiled. It was a mean, wicked, crafty smile. Then he hopped up and hurried to find Shadow, the Weasel and tell him his plan.

Shadow listened and then he, too, began to smile. "It's easy, Reddy Fox, the easiest thing in the world. We'll get Peter Rabbit just as sure as fat hens are good eating," said he, as they started for the Old Briar Patch.

Reddy's plan was very simple. Shadow the Weasel was to follow Peter Rabbit along Peter's narrow little paths and drive Peter out of the Old Briar Patch on to the Green Meadows, where Reddy Fox could surely catch him.

So Reddy Fox sat down to wait while Shadow started into the Old Briar Patch. Peter Rabbit heard him coming and, of course, Peter began to run. Now, when Peter first made his home in the Old Briar Patch he had foreseen that some day Shadow the Weasel might come to hunt him there, so Peter had made dozens and dozens of little paths, twisting and turning and crossing and recrossing in the most puzzling way. Of course, Peter himself knew every twist and turn of every one of them, but Shadow had not gone very far before he was all mixed up.

Peter led him farther and farther into the middle of the Old Briar Patch. Right there Shadow came to a great big puddle of water. Peter had jumped clear across it, for you know Peter's legs are long and meant for jumping. Now, Shadow hates to get his feet wet, and when he reached the puddle he stopped. He glared with fierce little eyes across at Peter Rabbit sitting on the other side. Then he started around the edge.

Peter waited until Shadow was almost around, and then he jumped back across the puddle. There was nothing for Shadow to do but go back around, which he did. Of course, Peter just did the same thing over again, all the time laughing in his sleeve. Finally Shadow grew so angry that he tried to jump the puddle himself, and in he fell with a great splash.

When Shadow crawled out, wet and muddy, Peter had disappeared and

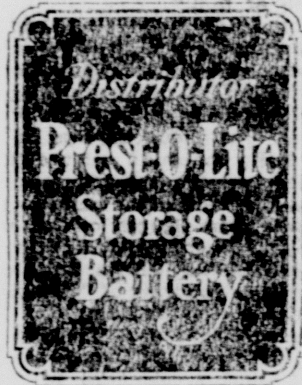

It Was Shadow the Weasel.

Shadow couldn't tell which path he had taken. Worse still, he didn't know which path to take to get out himself. He tried one after another, but after a little while would find himself back at the puddle in the middle of the Old Briar Patch. Shadow the Weasel was lost, yes, sir Shadow the Weasel was lost in the Old Briar Patch.

Outside, Reddy Fox waited and watched, but no frightened Peter Rabbit came jumping out at him exasperated. What could it mean? After a long long time he saw some one very muddy and very wet and very tired crawl out of one of Peter Rabbit's little paths. It was Shadow the Weasel. Reddy took one good look at him and then hurried away. He didn't want to hear what Shadow the Weasel would say. And as he hurried across the Green Meadows he heard Peter Rabbit's voice from the middle of the Old Briar Patch.

"If I get you don't say seed, try again," shouted Peter Rabbit. Reddy Fox ground his teeth.

BIBLE FOR CHINA

New Translation Has Been the Work of Many Years.

Said to Be the First Ever Put Into the National Language of the Race, and Almost Perfect Literary Production.

After continuous labor extending over more than a quarter of a century by Chinese and foreign scholars, the announcement is made a new translation of the Bible has been completed for the Chinese people. The publication of this translation at an early date, under the title of the "Revised Mandarin Bible," is announced by the American Bible society. The completion of the work will, it is stated, place this particular version in the hands of more individuals than were ever reached by any other translation. There have been Bibles in China for many years, of course, millions of them, but the forthcoming issue will be the first translated into the national language of the Chinese, and it is claimed that it will be the most nearly perfect literary production in the Chinese republic.

It will be interesting to many observers the world over to take careful note in the years to come of the effect of this translation upon the masses of the people of China. From the point of view of the western world, China is not rich in literature. This estimate is not disputed by many of the Chinese educated in America, and European colleges. Confucius, when he edited what the Chinese designate the sacred canons, in the sixth century before the Christian era, prescribed the model of Chinese literary form, and reached, in the belief of his followers, the pinnacle of philosophic wisdom. These classics, including the works edited and actually written by those who called themselves his disciples, possibly excel, in literary merit at least, the works of any other ancient civilization, and it is true that no other written words have for so many centuries molded the character, culture, morals and government of so great a nation. The veneration given throughout the centuries to the wisdom of Confucius has, because of the constant study of his philosophy, preserved the language almost unchanged for thirty centuries, and set a permanent standard in the nation's literature. In one of the books of this great series, that known as the "Analects" of Confucius, in which his views and maxims are related by his disciples, there are given what purport to be accounts of the habits and records of the teachings of the great Chinese moralist. In it there is found the sage's text on altruism, called the golden rule in its Chinese form, which, translated, reads: "What you would not others should do unto you, do not unto them."—Christian Science Monitor.

The Longest Tunnel.

The longest and largest tunnel in the world will probably soon be built under the Hudson river to connect New York with New Jersey. There are several tunnels large enough for a railroad train but the new tube under the river is to be large enough to allow two or three large teams or automobiles to run abreast. The tunnel will be much more than a mile in length and thirty feet or more in diameter. It is estimated that 6,046 vehicles can pass in both directions every hour in such a tunnel, which is more than twice as many as pass up and down Fifth avenue, probably the busiest street today in the world. The great problem of the tunnel is to provide ventilation, since the tube will be 3,800 feet long between the ventilating shafts. Fresh air will be forced in and the bad air allowed to escape by an elaborate system of pipes.—Boys' Life.

To Irrigate Egypt.

A project for obtaining control of the waters of the Upper Nile is being seriously contemplated. The work will extend over a generation, and involve the expenditure of tens of millions of dollars, affecting the entire future of irrigation throughout the Nile basin. A commission has already been formed and consists of three members; an irrigation engineer, nominated by the government of India, as president, and a British physicist, nominated by the University of Cambridge, and an irrigation engineer, nominated by the government of the United States, constitutes the third member.

Jimmy's Role.

Billy's mother heard a great commotion in the yard when he was playing with some other boys. Looking out, she saw him chasing one of his playmates around the yard, who was making an outcry at every jump. "Why, Billy," she called, "whatever are you doing?" "Oh, I'm running a blind pig and Jimmy's playing he's the pig," was the breathless reply.

Chance to Experiment.

"Our girl is anxious to get into the whirl." "Then let her come down to our office building and try the entrance revolving door when a crowd of messenger boys are going through."

Very Cheering.

"The man who never makes a mistake never makes anything." The chap who originated this remark was a friend to humanity.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The following program will be given: Mrs. J. S. Powell acting as leader. A full attendance is requested as further plans for the Saturday market will be made. Subject: "James, the Son of Zebedee."

Song, "Sweetest as the Years Go by" Scripture lesson, Matthew 16:1-10. Sentimental Prayers. "A General History of James"—Mrs. Powell. "His Zeal"—Miss Barton. "His Intolerance"—Mrs. A. B. Park. "His Ambition"—Mrs. W. H. Scott. "His Martyrdom"—Mrs. Harry Gordon. Close—The Lord's Prayer.

Meeting at Mrs. Johnson's Home. Mrs. Roy Johnson was the hostess at Tuesday's meeting of Mrs. Hackel's division of the C. W. B. M., which was the last session of the present season. Seven members were present and two visitors.

In addition to the usual Bible and Mission studies, there was a review of the text-book used during the year. The subject for the day was "Paraguay."

During the social period, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

To Hold Meeting at Blossom. Rev. E. S. Hutchinson of the West Paris Baptist church has been asked to assist Rev. Mr. Brownlee of the Blossom church, in holding a meeting, which will begin Sunday.

It will last about two weeks, with morning and evening services every day.

A good deal of interest is being shown, and it is hoped that the meeting will be one of the best, and it after the presentation of "Commencement Days," given last evening by the class of Twenty, at the auditorium.

The plot was simple, with a well-lanced cast, well chosen for the various parts, and practically letter-perfect not only in their lines, but what is known to professionals as "stage-business."

The performance was a credit to the class, and its dramatic director, Mrs. Hammond. The senior play will be long remembered as one of the most thoroughly pleasing affairs that the graduation class has this year stood sponsor for.

Pleasant Picnic Party. A pleasant little picnic party that was gotten up by E. T. Dodd went to Morgan Johnson's pasture two miles east of town Tuesday evening. Besides Mr. Dodd, the party was composed of Dr. L. C. Kirkos, J. M. Barr, H. L. Dutton and Dan Baker and their families.

A nice picnic lunch was spread on the bank of the pool, and in addition to the accustomed picnic fare of canned goods principally, about a dozen thick, juicy steaks broiled on five coals furnished the principal dish.

RUTH'S BOMBARDMENT OF WASHINGTON WAS AWFUL

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Divided Double Bill.

New York, June 2.—New York and Washington divided a double header today, the home club winning the first 8 to 1, losing the second 7 to 6. Ruth made 3 home runs, bringing his total to 15. Milan, Musel, Shank, Ruel and Roth also made home runs. After drawing 3 balls and two strikes in the first inning, Ruth slammed the ball into the upper tier of the rightfield grandstand for a home run, scoring Pipp ahead of him. In the 3rd he drove a line fly to left field, which Milan caught after running back almost to the fence. In the 5th he beat out an infield hit and then stole second. He hit the first man up in the 8th and drove the second ball pitched into the rightfield bleachers for his 14th home run. In the second game Ruth was thrown out at first in the 1st inning. In the 3rd he singled to center scoring ePekinpaugh. In the 5th with a man on third he was purposely walked. In the 8th he drove out his 15th home run, knocking the ball over the exit gate in the rightfield bleachers for what is believed to be the longest hit ever made at the Polo grounds. Score:

MOTHER OF FIRST AMERICAN SOLDIER KILLED IN FRANCE

Mrs. Alice Graham Dodd, First War Mother Of The Nation, Gives Entire Credit For Recovery Of Her Health To The Well Known Medicine, Tanlac.

The following remarkable endorsement of Tanlac was given recently by Mrs. Alice Graham Dodd, at the Gresham Memorial Home, Gavin Park, Evansville, Ind., which home was presented to her by the patriotic people of Indiana, as evidence of their appreciation of the services rendered to his country by her son, Corporal James B. Gresham, the first American soldier killed in France. Expressions of sympathy were received by Mrs. Dodd from all parts of the United States, and the newspapers of the country carried the story of the first "war mother."

The shock of her son's death resulted in the serious breakdown of Mrs. Dodd's health, but everyone will learn with interest and pleasure that she is now in splendid health again. When seen at her home recently she made the following statement, giving the entire credit for her recovery to the well-known medicine, Tanlac.

"After my dear boy's death, I had a general breakdown in health," said Mrs. Dodd. "At first it was just indigestion. My food used to upset me and I had to diet myself very carefully, which wasn't much hardship as I lost all desire to eat. Then I had an attack of rheumatism, with severe pains in my shoulders, back and arms. Sometimes I used to suffer a great deal, and my joints would get all swollen up and stiff. I was able to do very little about the house, and at times couldn't even cook a meal. I got very nervous and restless, and at night would lay awake for hours, and lost many a night's sleep as a consequence. A friend of mine had received a great deal of help from Tanlac, and it was she who advised me to try it. I am so glad I did for it proved the best medicine I have ever taken. It soon gave me a good appetite and seemed to settle my stomach so that I was no longer troubled with indigestion. I don't know what it is to have rheumatic pains now, the swelling and stiffness has all gone out of my joints and I am able to do the work of the house with the greatest ease. My nerves are now steady and strong, I sleep fine at night, and I feel better in health than ever before in my life. I shall always be grateful for what Tanlac has done for me, and shall recommend it every chance I get."

Tanlac is sold in Paris by Mayes' Drug Store, in Blossom by J. D. Dickey & Son, in Roxton by City Drug Store, in Howland by K. B. Burgess.

The Itching and Sting of Blazing, Fiery Eczema

Seems Like the Skin Is on Fire.

There is a harassing discomfort caused by Eczema that becomes a torture. The itching is almost unbearable and the skin seems on fire with the burning irritation. A cure from local applications of salves and ointments is impossible, because such treatment can only allay the pain temporarily. The disease can only be reached by going deep down to its source.

The source of Eczema is in the blood, the disease being caused by an infection which breaks out through the skin. That is why the most satisfactory treatment for all so-called skin diseases is S. S. S., for this remedy so thoroughly cleanses the blood that no impurities can remain. Get a bottle today, and you will see results from the right treatment. Write for advice. RUSS FEAST DAY COTTON GOODS LOWER Pretty Ceremonies Described by American Traveler.

Singing and Dancing by Peasant Girls and Boys Chief Feature of the Occasion—Survival of Primitive Customs.

It was the Feast of Transfiguration, and from all the countryside around came the poor, the crippled and the aged. Again and again we heard the tapping of a cane and a plaintive voice asking alms radii Christa, for the Christ's sake. Yanishev and I dropped a few kopeks into the bags they thrust before them. The women followed with large pieces cut from the big black loaves, while Ivan in each sack solemnly deposited a great green cucumber. This year cucumbers were scarce, as it was from Ivan a true gift of love. But whether we gave cucumber or bread or kopeks, back to each of us came the plaintive sing-song blessing of the beggar. Even the roughest, poorest Russian peasant is moved to profound pity by the spectacle of human misery. His own life teaches him the meaning of pain and privation. But they do not dull his sympathy. They make him more sensitive to the sufferings of others.

Now from the farther end of the village came the strains of music. There was a chorus of young voices accompanied by the thrumming of the balalaika, the clanging of cymbals and the throbbing of the bouben, a kind of tambourine. Clearer and clearer came the music until suddenly around the corner of the church emerged the procession of players and singers. The girls were in the gay rich costumes of the peasants, and the boys wore smocks of green and orange and brightest blue, belted by cords with tasseled ends. The instruments were in the hands of the boys. The girls sang in response to the preceptor. He was a clean-looking, tousel-haired lad of seventeen, one of the last to be drafted to the front. In a clear, lusty voice with an abandon of emotion he sang an old folk song, adding new verses of his own as he strode along.

Three times they circled the village green, and then gathering on the grass before the church, they sang and danced till morning. The rush and joyous fling of the dancers, the flaming, colored costumes in the light of the pine torches, the laughter and snatches of song rising out of the dark, the young lovers with their caresses frank and unashamed, the church bell at intervals crashing like a great temple gong, and the startled birds wheeling overhead made an impression of primitive energy and beauty. I was carried back across the centuries to the days when the race was young and the men drew life and inspiration directly from the soil.—Albert Rhys Williams in Yale Review.

In the Limelight.

Wagons are treacherous devices. My last experience with one was in a traffic jam just before I reached the busiest corner in town. I did not know that the boost I gave the wagon had done any damage to either of us, and so, when I swung into the main intersection I planned a perfectly snappy turn.

Around came the steering wheel and I felt it lock. I felt for the brake, but in my excitement struck the gas and began circling the traffic cop at breakneck speed. He dodged me at least three times before I stopped, the exact center of downtown attention. Then he regained his breath and raised his voice for all the world to hear.

"If ye are finished with this grand exhibition," he advised, "please go somewhere else so the traffic can get by!"—Exchange.

Necktie Banks Now.

The latest thing in coin-carrying devices is reported by the woodmen who are drifting into Virginia, Minn., in increasing numbers. Instead of the old scheme of carrying their stake in their woolen socks, loose in their pockets or in a wallet, the lumber jacks and miners now carry it in their neckties. They insert the bills in the lining of the necktie, pin the tie and then tuck it in the front of their shirt. The advantage lies in the fact that one has his bank directly in front of him at all times. Incidentally, more woodmen are wearing neckties this year than ever before.—Philadelphia Record.

Houses for Scotland.

Scotland is undergoing an almost ceaseless agitation for more and better houses, and the inquiries are more numerous than ever for American lumber, hardware and machine tools. With all her war loss Scotland needs more than 100,000 new homes. In many cities six and eight families have been living in small dwellings, sometimes one or two families in a room. The Scottish program for 1920 calls for 10,000 houses.

Famous Holliston Elms.

Elms at Holliston, Mass., planted about the year 1747 have been nominated for a place in the Hall of Fame of the American Forestry association at Washington. They may have been six or seven feet in circumference during Washington's time.

The Idea.

"The baker of the show complained that his cake was dough." "I suppose the star gave him to understand that is what angel cake generally turns out to be."

PERHAPS NEXT SPRING

New York Cotton.

New York, June 2.—First government report of the season placed this condition at 62.4. This compared with 75.6 last year, and a ten year average of 78.7 and was the lowest end-May report on record, while the supplemental report issued by the bureau emphasized the unfavorable outlook. October contracts sold up to 35.90, on the report, or 83 points above the closing price of last Friday, but this advance attracted heavy realizing, and the market closed barely steady at the lowest point of the day, showing net advances of 2 to 45 points on all months except August, which was 10 points net lower. Uncertainty regarding the status of the contract was not relieved by the president's signature to the corrected agricultural appropriation bill in time for the market to open before the government report was issued and the surprise of the figures probably had worn off to some extent before the opening of the market here at 1 o'clock.

Port receipts today 12,095. U. S. port stocks 1,341,939. Exports 7,174. Exports for season 5,944,774.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 2.—A bulge of a cent a pound was registered in the price of cotton today, following an opening bid three hours while the trade waited for the signature of President Wilson to a bill making permanent the form of contract which has been traded in for about a year and which expired at midnight last night. Following the official announcement that the bill had become a law the market opened at 11 o'clock and inside of ten minutes was 92 to 100 points higher on having received by the first condition report of the season from the department of agriculture.

After the first wave of buying the market became quieter and longs went to realizing. The regular weekly crop reports, however, were considered unsatisfactory and July again firmed up but liquidation followed, hastened by the fact that this market will close tomorrow in observance of Confederate Memorial Day, and selling was heaviest toward the end so that the close was lowest at the close of the day, showing net gains of only 38 to 57 points.

Dry Goods Market.

New York, June 2.—Cotton goods today were quiet with gray goods prices steadier. Yarns were steadier trade being light. Nearly half the worsted yarn orders in hand have been cancelled in some spinning mills. Owing to the decline in wool and raw silk lower prices for the spring season.

son of 1921 are now expected by primary merchants. Finishers of cotton goods are running about fifty percent of capacity. Bleaching costs have been advanced as of June 1.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, June 2.—Material fresh in the price of corn resulted from continued failure of railroad efforts to enlarge receipts here. The close was unsettled, but 2 cents to 2 3/4 cents higher, with July 1.75 to 1.77 1/2, and September, 1.61 1/4 to 1.61 3/4. Oats gained 1 1/2 cents to 1 7/8 cents. In provisions the outcome ranged from 20 cents to a rise of 12 cents.

The advance in corn prices was given further impetus through reports that the 1920 grain season was uniformly 10 to 20 days late. Word of liberal new export business in the wheat tended subsequently to prevent any notable reaction in the corn market.

Oats like corn appeared to be chiefly influenced by the lack of a free movement of supplies to distributing centers.

Provisions were somewhat depressed by knowledge that the stock of lard here is the second heaviest ever known.

Fort Worth Livestock.

Fort Worth, June 2.—Cattle, 4000; 25 cents higher, beefs $8.00 to $9.75; stockers, $7.50 to $8.50; cows, $3.50 to $5.00; heifers $5.50 to $10.00; bulls, $5.00 to $7.00; calves, $5.00 to $12.25. Hogs, 1000; 50 cents down. Heavy $12.75 to $14.00, light, $13.85 to $14.10, medium, $13.90 to $13.75; mixed, $12.00 to $13.00, common, $11.00 to $12; pigs, $8.50 to $11.25. Sheep, 4500; steady; lambs, $12.00 to $13.00; yearlings, $13.00 to $14.00; wethers, $8.50 to $9.50; ewes, $7.50 to $8.50; culs, $4.50 to $6.50; goats, $4.00 to $5.00.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, June 2.—Cotton seed oil advanced some 35 to 40 points on short covering, inspired by the bullish government report on cotton and the upturn in lard, but a setback took place near the close under realizing sales. Leading months closed 5 to 11 points net higher. Sales, 10,500 barrels. Prime crude 15.00 asked, prime summer yellow spot 18.90; July 18.95, September, 19.02, December, 19.30, prime winter yellow and summer white nominal.

New York Coffee.

New York, June 2.—The market for coffee futures showed a steadier tone during today's earlier trading, owing to the advance in sterling exchange on London and covering. The opening was unchanged to one point lower, but prices soon advanced. Reaction followed, however, and the market closed net one point lower to 3 points higher. June 14.75; July 14.85; September, 14.56; October, 14.55; December, January and May 14.54.

New Orleans Rice.

New Orleans, June 2.—Rough rice, no sales; receipts 1255 sacks; millers receipts 1255. Clean rice, steady, sales Japanese 123 pockets at 9 1/2, blue rose 87 1/2 pockets 7 3/4 to 11 1/4. Bran and polish unchanged. Receipts 1900.

New York Sugar.

New York, June 2.—The local market for raw sugar continues quiet and prices are nominally unchanged at 19 1/4 cents for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 20.57 for central food. The arrivals of raw sugar during the past few days have been quite heavy and seemed to have taken care of the demands of refiners for the present at least, and they were out of the market, while the demand from operators was not very active and bids of 13 3/4 cents for Cubas cost and freight which were heard in the market yesterday, failed to make their appearance today. Nevertheless, offerings were being pressed and holders were inclined to wait developments.

The market for refined was unchanged at 21 1/2 to 23 1/2 cents for the unrefined. It was said that in the past increased allocations were being made by some of the western refiners, although locally the demand was still in excess of the supply. Recently a large refiner was said to have made some allocations for July and August shipments at 22 1/2 cents for fine granulated, with all refiners said to be pretty well sold ahead.

In futures there was another advance of 100 points by some of the active positions, or the full maximum gain permitted in any one day's session. The advance was due to covering and buying by trade interests as the recent sharp decline was said to have been too rapid and carried the market below a parity with raws.

this great man of Christ, hear him. A second invitation will not be necessary as the increasing congregations fully attest.

The music, which is led by W. G. Shipp, is very inspiring and is joined in by everybody as the songs are the good old hymns we all love so well.

Last evening Mr. Duncan took as his text the 14th verse of the 6th chapter of Galatians: "But God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ."

"The cross," said the preacher, "means more than the mere word upon which Christ was crucified. I have a cross that was once blessed by a man. It is no better than it was before. If a man would be saved let him deny himself, take up his cross and follow me."

God forbid that I should boast. Boast means to glory—to be proud. We boast of our good blood, and we should be proud of good blood in people. It should be as careful to have good blood in people as to have good blood in cattle. But none of us are so fine in blood or so good in our daily lives but that we need the cleansing power of the blood of Jesus Christ. We need regeneration.

We boast of our civil positions and of the things we accomplish in a business way. The Apostle Paul could justly boast of his citizenship, but this was as naught. It took the blood of Jesus Christ to make of him the great power that God wanted him to be.

Mr. Duncan closed his sermon with a strong appeal to the unconverted to accept Christ. "The greatest thing in the world is to be a Christian. Woodrow Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George, the two greatest leaders in the world war, are devout worshippers of the lowly Nazarene. You chose his own to lead us in that great conflict."

NOT DISCOURAGED BY DEEP TEST FAILURE
What is said to be the fifth deepest well in the United States bored in search of oil is located a short distance across the river from Lamar county at Sawyer, Ok.

It turned out to be a duster and was abandoned a few weeks ago after it had been sunk a depth of 4800 feet. The prospectors bored with their own money and didn't sell any stock or leases.

Although they were unsuccessful in their wildcatting venture, for some reason or other they seem to still have faith in oil being found there, as they are making arrangements to bore another well right near the dry hole and are not selling any stock.

The parties who are interested in the venture are from Colorado and are said to have been road builders until the United States entered the world war. They were then unable to obtain material and machinery for building roads and turned their attention to oil prospecting.

NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE ASKS FOR PROTECTION

TOPEKA, Kan., June 2.—Three men who appeared before Richard J. Hopkins, attorney general, today to ask for protection for speakers on behalf of the Non-Partisan League, were referred to local peace officers where meetings were planned. The men who made the appeal were Walter T. Mills, who said he was a national organizer of the league, J. O. Stevie of Topeka, state manager for the Non-Partisan League in Kansas, and in charge of the Topeka office, and M. L. Amos, editor of the Ellsworth Leader.

The three men, with Jay McFadden, a Stafford county man, were forced out of several western Kansas towns Tuesday, according to a statement by Mr. Stevie.

FORMER PARIS MAN ON VISIT FROM EL PASO

Walter Early, a former resident of Paris, who clerked at Wm. Frank's drygoods store on the west side of the plaza for a long time, is here from El Paso to see his mother, who is very ill at the home of another son, C. E. Early, on South 14th street. Her condition was reported slightly improved yesterday.

This is Mr. Early's first visit to Paris since the big fire, and it is needless to say that he is impressed with the wonderful transformation that been wrought since he last saw the town.

Mr. Early says that the overthrow of Carranza is bringing about a big change in Mexico. Gambling and the sale of liquor have been stopped and the new provisional president is credited with saying that he wants Americans to visit Mexico, but that he doesn't want to see them come just to dissipate.

The people of El Paso and elsewhere along the border, Mr. Early said, are firmly impressed with the belief that a new era has dawned, and that Mexico is at last to have tranquility.
